

Authenticity

Everyone has the need to be genuine. We are lost when we don't know ourselves. That is true for everyone on the planet.

Honor the diversity in others. It adds depth to the experiences we share. Thankfully, we are not all the same! Can you imagine how boring that would be? We have opportunities to experience different responses from different people. Their contributions are based upon who they are.

Community is created when diverse people come together, and share themselves. Our genuine selves have so much to offer!
